Virtual Assistants

The trend of utilizing remote workers is growing exponentially every year and the appeal of hiring freelancers on a short-term or project-to-project basis has become very appealing to businesses worldwide as a more affordable alternative to full time staff, which generally demands competitive salaries and benefits.

The advent of Virtual Assistants has swiftly become a popular option for small businesses and entrepreneurs seeking administrative assistants, creative contributors or technical professionals on a freelance basis. Without the costs of additional office space, health benefits, supplies and other office-related expenses, a business owner can solely focus on paying for 100% productive work on a schedule of their choosing.

Another attractive feature of opting to hire a virtual assistant is the convenience of staying in touch. With a number of devices at our fingertips it has never been easier to stay connected and in tune with whatever project is in progress.
Wherever your business is based, you can always be confident that your virtual assistant is only a phone/conference call, email or Skype chat away.

Additionally, a virtual assistant is capable of doing all the tasks an in-house employee would - all with the convenience of staying local. Everything from answering emails to setting up meetings to answering the phone can be done in a seamless, convenient manner that works for both sides of the working relationship.
